Air Force Capt. James Ray of Conroe and Arm S.Sgt. Ken Wallingford, now from Austin, arrived at Kelly Air Force base at 2:32 a.m. CST and emerged smiling from a C9 medical evacuation plane seven minutes later.

Ray made a brief statement he had written on yellow paper, which he said was for both himself and Wallingford.

Johnson stressed that a temporary suspension of production of chili and beef stew announced Tuesday "is not at all uncommon in our industry."

In a letter sent out to direct buying customers Tuesday, Wolf Brand announced it was temproducts from sale until the government approves a price increase for its products to meet meat prices.

"Until we get some relief either from a drop in meat prices or production into items that don't use as much meat and don't use Johnson said.

Referring to a story that appeared in The Dallas Morning News this morning as "much ado about nothing," Johnson assured The Daily Sun the processing plant is still "running full blast" and there will no personnel cutbacks.

A nine cent increase in the price of beef from Monday to Tuesday along with the recent devaluation of the dollar necessitated the temporary production suspension, Johnson

Although all of Wolf Brand's meat is bought fresh from markets in San Antonio and Dallas-Fort Worth, the increase in frozen meat prices, which are now higher than fresh meat prices, has caused a strain on the fresh meat market, he said.

"It's a matter of a shortage of porarily withdrawing some of its supply and big demand and the only substitution would be imported meat which we don't use.

Under the Phase 3 guidelines of the Nixon administration, the food permission to increase our industry is the only industry that prices, we're shifting our must give prior notice of price increases, Johnson said.

In Navarro County, the decision of who will stay in jail casts with two justices of the peace and two judges, each with differing opinions on how the bond system should work, and upon bondsmen, who are in the business to make money.

From the time an accused person is booked in County Jail until his case is finally disposed of in court, he is at the mercy of the judges and the bondsmen.

The first and perhaps the most important person in the bond system encountered by the accused is the justice of the peace who sets the amount of the bond.

USUALLY WITHIN 12 HOURS after a person is placed in County Jail he faces either Justice W.H. Tipton or Justice G.W. O'Neal, who officially charges the person with a crime, informs him of his rights, and sets bond.

"A whole lot depends on what kind of crime a person is charged with when I'm setting their bond," Tipton said. In misdemeanor cases, which are transcribed to County Court, the

Export Demands, High Prices Cut Grain Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) - High farm prices and huge export orders for the first time in 25 years are clearing government cupboards of grain surpluses, a once-bothersome mountain of wheat and corn that cost taxpayers $1 million a day to store.

Only a year ago, the Nixon administration faced the prospect of a growing grain surplus and nursed worries that farm prices, sensitive in a presidential campaign, would plummet by fall.

But the now-famous sale of 400 million bushels of wheat last summer to the Soviet Union changed it all. Further orders for wheat and feed grain came in from other countries and prices jumped. Wheat rose from $1.32 per bushel last July to $2.38 in January, the most farmers enjoyed since 1947. Corn and other feed grains also have gone up. Soybeans, the hottest item, have gone out of sight. Grain stocks holdings are on the verge of being liquidated entirely for the first time since the late 1940s when the United States was helping feed wartorn nations.

A year ago the Commodity Credit Corp. in the Agriculture Department owned outright some 372 million bushels of wheat and 144 million of corn, a relatively small amount of decade-ago standards.

The CCC wheat supply was down to 276 million bushels by last Jan. 1 and corn holdings were cut to 140 million. But USDA officials say the figures do not tell the full story.

"If it weren't for the transportation situation, we would already have been cleared out of grain, I'm sure," Glenn A. Weir, associate administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said in an interview.

"Even if it eases this spring, we would soon be out of business. As it stands, I don't know. But we hope everything will be gone quickly," Weir said.
The CCC is the buying and selling arm of the Agriculture Department. When market prices are low, farmers take out price support loans on grain. If prices do not improve before the loans mature or come due, farmers can let the government take over the grain and thus satisfy the loan.

That is how the taxpayer, through CCC, became owner of 1.1 billion bushels of wheat and 1.4 billion of corn in the early 1960s. It seemed the surpluses would never end.

But tighter acreage controls, a mini-boom in the mid-1960s and rising exports, mainly for wheat, helped dissolve the surpluses. Consumers began eating more meat and extra corn was needed.

Now, it appears to Weir and other USDA experts, the demand for more wheat and feed grain is on such a solid footing that all government-held stocks soon will be depleted.

As a result, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has ordered more land back into production this year. In all, officials say, farmers will idle only about 20 million acres in 1973 under crop "set-aside" programs.

Last year, when it appeared the surplus problem was getting out of hand again, farmers idled more than 60 million acres.

The programs have been adjusted also to save taxpayers $1 billion in direct crop payments, estimated at around $2.5 billion for this year compared with $3.5 billion in 1972.

If farmers plant as much corn as they may under the relaxed acreage-control program, department experts think a record crop will be harvested next fall.

That will not add to the surplus, the department says. Exports and U.S. feeders will need that a year from now. Meantime, there is no "shortage" of feed grain-only a tight supply situation.

More wheat also is needed and farmers are expected to boost spring plantings sharply. Winter wheat growers, who planted fields last fall, also have increased acreages. Part of the reason that the administration released more acres for 1973 crops is to help relieve rising food prices. By producing more wheat and feed grain, the White House hopes farmers will turn out more meat animals, poultry and

Nets' Comeback Dies Too Soon...

"It was a tough, tough, tough game to lose after we had made such a good comeback," New York Coach Lou Carnesecca sighed.

It was, indeed. The Nets, trailing Memphis by 13 points in the third quarter, struggled back to tie the game in the closing seconds.

But those closing seconds were all the Tams needed. Johnny Neumann, who led Memphis with 25 points, eluded rookie guard Brian Taylor and, at the buzzer, tossed in an eight-foot jumper that sank the Nets 95-93 Tuesday night. It ruined an otherwide superb with a game-high 30 points.

In the American Basketball Association's only other game, Kentucky defeated San Diego

In National Basketball Association it was Kansas City-Omaha 132, Houston 118; Golden State 103, Cleveland 90; Boston 105, Chicago 101; Milwaukee 110, Detroit 96; Los Angeles 101, Seattle 98, and Portland 120, Buffalo 100.

Of that last play by the Tams, Carnesecca said: "We did not want to foul them. We wanted to make them take the shot from outside. Neumann threw in a hell of a shot."

Five players hit double figures for the Colonels, who shaved idle Carolina's East Division lead to 4½ games. Dan Issel, with 26 points, and Artis night for Taylor, who finished Gilmore and Louie Dampier, with 19 apiece, paced the balanced attack against the Conquistadors, who got 25 points from Stew Johnson and 22 from

I believe that this last action by the House and the action outlined in my first newsletter regarding almost doubling of the sta allowance for the legislators, has set a trend that I am fearful of having financially disasterous tax consequences before the session is over. Another ominous fact for the taxpayers of this State to face, is the tremendous almost all of the State agencies.

Some of these State agencies have built-in increases I know. Some can be justified, to some extent, by the increased need, but I cannot see all the spending of the public's money without facing the obligation that it makes for increased taxes. Most legislators are pledged against new taxes and it will be interesting to see how they perform when the appropriation bill is considered.
